“Put simply, if Homeline don't do it, you don't need it”.

Protect your most valuable possession – your home

Climate change, global warming, greenhouse gasses... sometimes these tend to be the most overused words in our lives today. Yet despite all the fuss, one thing is pretty clear – it's raining more than it used to.

Ask yourself this simple question: can your home cope? The truth is, your roofline is open to daily attack throughout the year – snow, rain, wind and even blistering summer sun.

Maintaining your existing woodwork is not only time consuming, it costs money too. A rotting roofline can really let your property down. It can also cause structural damage, cause woodworm and encourage vermin (squirrels, birds, you name it).

New PVC-U rooflines from Homeline

So isn't it time you considered replacing your old roofline with quality, weather-resistant, long-lasting LEAD FREE PVC-U that needs neither painting nor repairing, no matter what the weather?

Once the work is done, you never have to give it a second thought. Our roofline system does not warp, crack, flake or peel. Ever. With Homeline's huge range all under one brand, you'll be surprised how inexpensive it can be to replace your old decaying roofline. Just think of the money you'll save on maintenance in the long term!

But it's not all about money. Our roofline products not only demonstrate that you genuinely care about the look of your property, they also add value to your home, and create the ultimate kerb appeal to your property.

“Add considerable value to your home with PVC-U rooflines from Homeline!”

“Homeline recommends a complete removal of existing timber, to truly realise the benefits of PVC-U roofline.”

Don't paper over cracks

Too often we have seen customers having capping boards fitted instead of having the old timber removed and completely replaced. This may seem the more cost effective option when presented to you in the short term, however ask yourself, over the long run is it really such a good idea?

The rotten wood hasn't gone anywhere, it is still there, deteriorating even more by the year. Eventually the nails will come loose due to rotten and infested wood, leaving your fascias exposed and unsecured.

Stripping away existing timber and replacing it with PVC-U can not only improve the appearance of your roofline, it also forms an effective barrier to stop vermin attacking your roof space.

Decorative Options

Add style to your home with a choice of decorative fascias from Homeline. Our high performance, low maintenance, distinctively shaped fascias add character to both modern and older properties. Choose from either Convex or Concave designs.

Ventilation

Air temperatures in properties are higher today due to central heating, double glazing, insulation and draught-proofing. Older homes may have retained chimneys, fireplaces and air vents to aid air circulation, but modern houses have become sealed units. Although warm and dry housing is essential for health and comfort, lack of appropriate ventilation can lead to moisture retention.

Roofline replacement gives home owners the opportunity to improve air circulation. Circulating air in your roof reduces the build up of condensation which causes damp, mould and rotten timbers. Homeline ventilation systems ensure a long-life for roof timbers. There's a choice of discreet over fascia ventilation or soffit air vents to protect your roof from the adverse effects of moisture retention. All products comply with current building regulations.

Eaves Guard (with combed vent)

Rotten timber fascias are usually the result of water ingress, via broken tiles, cracked verges or damaged felt. The exposed strip of felt is the area most prone to damage. Often the fascia exterior looks in tact, masking the deterioration behind. Inspection and replacement of eaves felt is an essential part of roofline installation.

Gutter Guard

Keep gutters free from debris with Gutter Guard from Homeline. Gutter Guard is a made-to-measure mesh, effective in preventing leaves, twigs, moss and birds' nests from blocking rainwater flow.

Insect Guard

For added protection against infestation, why not opt to have insect guard installed above you vented soffit boards. Insect guard will form an effective barrier against unwanted vermin in your roof space.

It's more common than you think to have insects such as bees, wasps and squirrels to infest your roof space. Investing in preventative measures now will save you lots of money in the future.
